I am building a small screen-reader application and need to make sure that the images I display are not scaled to accommodate the height of different screen resolutions (the browser window). Is there a way to test if an image has been scaled to fit the width of the window? A: No, there is no way to directly test that an image has been scaled without having access to the code that scales the image. This setting is ignored by most browsers, but it does affect the look of the image in some cases. You can test it by trying to get the width and height of an image with a 0 dpi, and comparing to the element it's in. For example: `var img = document.getElementById('my-image'); alert('image's height:' + document.getElementById('my-image').clientHeight); alert('image's width:' + document.getElementById('my-image').clientWidth); img.src = 'someimage.png'; alert('image's height:' + document.getElementById('my-image').clientHeight); alert('image's width:' + document.getElementById('my-image').clientWidth);` Bust a Move (song) "Bust a Move" is a single recorded by Canadian dancehall artist Sean Paul, released on April 14, 2011.
